

Read & Recommended

My Wife Said You May Want To Marry Me A Memoir by Jason B. Rosenthal

"You May Want to Marry My Husband." an op-ed piece for the New York Times' "Modern Love" column written by the authors wife, Amy Krouse Rosenthal, appeared ten days before her death from ovarian cancer. A play on a personal ad it was really a love letter to her husband. In it Amy encouraged her husband to carry on and find happiness after her death.

Jason has written honest, moving account of the grief a spouse deals with when a loved one dies. This is a moving account of their marriage and the loss he has experienced. It starts as a tribute to his wife, then unfolds into an exploration of resilience and that is possible to live again.

Jason and Amy were extremely lucky to have had such an incredible love story.

Jason B. Rosenthal is the number one New York Times bestselling author of Dear Boy, cowritten with his daughter, Paris. He is the board chair of the Amy Krouse Rosenthal Foundation, which supports both childhood literacy and research in early detection of ovarian cancer. A lawyer, public speaker, and devoted father of three, he is passionate about helping others find ways to fill their blank spaces as he continues to fill his own. Jason resides in Chicago, a city he is proud to call home.