BLACK HISTORY MONTH 2021

We Invite You to Explore and Celebrate Black History Month this February

Throughout the month of February, we invite you to explore and celebrate the heritage, traditions, and culture of African-Canadians.

Black History Month began in the United States as "Negro History Week" in February 1926 aimed at raising awareness and understanding of the African experience around the world.

The United States began to formally celebrate Black History Month in the 1960s, and in 1995, the House of Commons unanimously passed a motion to recognize Black History Month across Canada.

Black History Month is an opportunity for us to recognize the past and present contributions that African Canadians make to the life of our community in such areas as education, medicine, art, culture, public service, economic development, politics, and human rights.
