How to Organize and Run a Successful Book Club

Establish a group of potential members and meet to establish the ground rules for your Book Club. Here are some suggestions to include:

Set a regular meeting location, day and time, and stick to it. (Location may change if rotating between members' homes, however day and time should remain consistent.)

Determine if refreshments will be served or not and what form such refreshments should take. (Host or assigned to others)

Decide on a process for selecting book titles for the group to read. Either select all titles for an agreed session in advance, or choose each title on a month by month basis. Make sure that members have time to find and read the chosen title before the meeting.

Who will be the facilitator and lead the group? One person or rotate turns by title? Or do you prefer an unstructured approach?

Read together, grow together.
